Estornells vulgars Sturnus vulgaris menjant insectes dels cotxes aparcats

L. L. GUSTAMANTE

Common Starlings Sturnus vulgaris taking dead insects from parked cars

On the 20.08.91 I observed, in a car park at Stonehenge, Amesbury, U.K., a group of Common Starlings taking dead insects from the front of parked cars. Both juveniles and adults were observed to use this unusual food supply, which is a good example of the adaptability of the species to the urban environment.

Key words: Sturnus vulgaris, unusual food supply

Lluis Gustamante, Melcior de Palau 5-7, 1-3, 08028 Barcelona.
Rebut: 22.01.92; Acceptat: 19.02.92

---

BIBLIOGRAFIA

